

PHYSICIAN CALM AT MURDER TRIAL

Dr. Lionel Dudley, Held for Girl's Death, Helps Pick Jurors.

ALL ARE MARRIED MEN

Authorities Admit They Can Get No Trace of "Man Higher Up" in Case.

Houlton, Maine, Dec. 5.—It took only a few minutes more than seven hours today to complete the jury that on Monday morning will begin to hear the evidence against Dr. Lionel E. Dudley, charged with the murder of Mildred Sullivan, a seventeen-year-old school girl, who died at Presque Isle September 4, as the result of an operation.

The crime, when they scooped out a shallow grave and buried the girl, clad only in a night gown.

Katie Michaud, a school friend of Mildred Sullivan, and Alice Pelletier, a resident of Presque Isle, are awaiting trial on similar charges. It is admitted tacitly by the State that there was a "man higher up" in the case, and that so far all efforts to apprehend him have failed.

This man is supposed to have been a close friend of Dudley, and to have advised him to consult Dr. Dudley. He is said to have given her $5 to give to the doctor, and Mildred is reported to have said when she visited the doctor's office that "if this were not enough money her friends would supply more."

Whatever the outcome of the case against Dudley and the Michaud and Pelletier women, there will always be a suspicion that a certain wealthy Houlton man inspired the crime.

Surveyor to Testify.

The first witness called by the State Monday probably will be Preston H. Burleigh, the surveyor, who made charts of the territory about the unmarked grave where Mildred Sullivan's body was found. There will be much medical testimony, and the State will call all told about forty witnesses, while the defense will have as many.

The jury, as completed, contains twelve married men, nine being farmers, one a carpenter, one a hardware dealer and the twelfth a grocer. The court room was crowded at today's session and there were many women and young girls present.

Dr. Dudley, who at medical college was noted as an athlete, was composed under the battery of eyes that was on him throughout both morning and afternoon sessions. The only evidence he gave of the strain he was under was in his shaky complexion. He was carefully groomed and listened attentively to the examination of each ventruman. Nineteen prospective jurors were peremptorily challenged by the defense and nearly every challenge followed a whispered colloquy between Dr. Dudley and his counsel.

CLOSED DANUBE HALTS SERBIA-BOUND RUSSIANS

Tunnel at Roumanian Frontier Is Blown Up—German Princes in Poland Flee in Airship.

Amsterdam (via London), Dec. 5.—The great tunnel near Tychelochar (Tukla) has been blown up by dynamite, thus severing communication between Serbia and Roumania, according to advices from Nish, Serbia, to the Rotterdam Courant.

The passage of Russian troops along the Danube, the dispatch states, has therefore become impossible.

It has been reported that Russian troops have been going to Serbia by way of the Danube, although this report has not been confirmed.

Dec. 5.—Experts estimate that the Germans lost two-thirds of their army in Poland in the recent fighting in the region between the Warta and Vistula rivers, says a dispatch from Petrograd to the Morning Post. Prince Oscar and Prince Joachim, sons of the German Emperor, are reported to have escaped only by taking flight in an aeroplane. The message refers to the delay in the arrival of Russian reinforcements, which enabled the Germans to break through the surrounding ring, and adds:

"As it was a large number of Germans got out of the trap and the subsequent fighting has been a curious tactical spectacle with the Russians and Germans in alternate strips covering a considerable area. The Germans have alternated furious attacks with retreat fighting, and the information vouchsafed is insufficient to show how final success can be attained."

GERMANS HAVE NEW SALUTE.

Hatred of Britain Shows in Latest Military Greeting.

Berlin, Dec. 5.—German officers do not salute in the usual military way, according to a letter published by a landwehr officer in a German newspaper. The form of greeting is:

"Viel punsch England."

The reply is:

"May He punish England."

Marie Corelli Hurt in Crash.

London, Dec. 5.—Marie Corelli, the novelist, met with a painful accident this afternoon while motoring, and is reported to have suffered rather serious injuries about the head.

ARTIST WHO TAUGHT BRITISH QUEEN DIES

Charles P. Sainton, Noted English Portraitist, Whose Specialty Was Silver Point, Is Stricken.

Special to The Washington Herald.

New York, Dec. 5.—Charles P. Sainton, noted English portraitist, who taught Queen Alexandra of England how to draw with the silver point and who was a favorite with King George and Queen Mary, who possess a collection of fifty of his works, is dead today, following an operation in the Presbyterian Hospital.

Sainton, who was fifty-three years old, acquired fame seventeen years ago when Queen Alexandra became his pupil. His specialty was portrait heads in silver point and gold point, one of the most difficult processes of art.

King George soon after his coronation purchased a picture which Sainton was exhibiting in the annual display of the Royal Institute of Water Color Painters. Queen Alexandra has a collection of thirty of his works.

Sainton was a son of Prosper Sainton, a noted violinist, and of Mrs. Sainton, Dolby, a famous singer and composer. He was educated at Harrow, and became celebrated as captain of the Harrow cricket team.

He is survived by a wife, three sons, and a daughter. One of the sons is at the front fighting with the British army, and another lives in California.

GOLDEN NOTES TRILL FOR FRENCH WOUNDED

Mary Garden Coming Home for Christmas, Then Back to Nursing.

London, Dec. 5.—Mary Garden, grand opera singer and Red Cross nurse, arrived in London this afternoon from the front for a rest which she purposes spending in America with her mother. She will return to the war zone immediately after Christmas and resume nursing.

For six weeks the famous prima donna has been assigned to a base hospital near Boulogne, and has been devoting all her time and energy to it. Her songs have helped convalescents enjoy many weary hours.

"It's true my operatic plans for the season have been upset by the war, but after the terrible and the big brave things I've seen lately, our poor worldly ambitions seem so small and pitiful."

"Medical science has never accomplished greater marvels than under my own observation in that hospital. Surgeons and equipment were the best, and many sons of France were sent away with new jaws and noses in place of their shattered ones."

In addition to her hospital labors Miss Garden, in association with two other American women, has opened a large house in Versailles, where she is caring for 140 women and children refugees from Belgium.

PLOT AGAINST LINER FEARED.

Unusual Precautions Taken by Cunard Officials.

New York, Dec. 5.—Unusual precautions were taken by officials of the Cunard Line to see that no suspicious persons were among the 1100 passengers who sailed for Liverpool on the Lusitania this morning. The ship was delayed more than half an hour from the scheduled sailing time so that every passenger and every ticket could pass under the careful and watchful eyes of the company's officials.

Just why these extra precautions were taken could not be learned, but it was reported that fear was entertained that some fanatic might seek passage with the intention of blowing up the ship in mid-ocean. Another report was to the effect that German spies might be seeking to land in England as American citizens coming over on business on the Lusitania. Neither of these reports could be verified.

CHASED "LOVE THIEF" IN TUTO.

Woman Seizing Nance Gwyn for Alienation Served Papers.

New York, Dec. 5.—Nance Gwyn, actress, failed today in an effort to have Mrs. Joseph L. Plunkett fined as a disorderly character, the charge preferred by Miss Gwyn being based on Mrs. Plunkett's action in serving the actress with papers in an alienation suit.

"I was never so humiliated in my life," Miss Gwyn told Magistrate Corrigan in Tombs Police Court. "While riding with a party of friends in my automobile on November 27 I was pursued all over town by this woman, and finally was obliged to stop to avoid a collision. Then Mrs. Plunkett jumped out of her automobile and served me with papers in this silly suit of hers."
